BIOGRAPHY

Working as an Assistant Professor and media coordinator at the Government College of Nursing, S. N. Medical College, Agra, Uttar Pradesh, India, I prioritize a learner-centered environment and emphasize critical thinking and clear communication. I have extensive experience in research and teaching, specializing in medical-surgical nursing with a sub-specialty in gastroenterology. I have published 15 research publications and co-guided three undergraduate research theses. I have presented scientific papers as a featured speaker five times Internationally (including two upcoming presentations in July 2025) and twice nationally at AIIMS, Jodhpur, and ILBS, New Delhi. I was recognized for my research contributions and received the Young Researcher Excellence Award in 2021. I have also conducted a national webinar on NABH accreditation preparedness and served as a master trainer for WHO projects on viral hepatitis. I have been invited as a guest speaker on viral hepatitis at UPUMS, Saifai, Uttar Pradesh, India and edited the "Futuristic Trends in Pharmacy & Nursing" volume. I am certified in FibroScan and have performed over 250 tests under the National Free Liver Check Up Project. As an editor and peer reviewer, I contribute to various international journals, ensuring high research standards.
